

AXONIC®

PRESS RELEASE

Say goodbye to folders and exhausting search marathons: Chilibase® promises (professional) life changing Outlook® experience

Communication at its best: Chilibase®, add-in for Outlook® 2003/2007 separates e-mail communication from folder structures and offers overview at request

Karlsruhe, Germany, April 25th 2007 - "Who has talked to whom and when?" - Often, this is the decisive question when working with Outlook® professionally. But when several parties are involved, creating an overview can require undesirable, time consuming legwork. The built-in search by Outlook® is limited in its function and only provides a list of messages containing key words instead of a comprehensive overview.

On April 15th Axonic has released a guide through modern day e-mail overflow in Outlook®: Chilibase®. Chilibase® renders time consuming filing, cataloging and prioritizing of e-mail messages a ghost of the past by offering a whole new outlook on present ways of communication.

Through an innovative ranking technology, ChiliRank®, Chilibase® provides a fast and person focused overview of e-mail communication in Outlook®. ChiliRank® technologies classify a person with respect to relevance. The more relevant a person is in an actual context, the higher that person's ranking will be. Chilibase® assembles the necessary information across folders and e-mail addresses. Gone are the days of exhausting search marathons!

„The key to a successful and effective professional communication is overview at all times. This is a huge challenge considering the e-mail overflow and overstuffed inboxes of our professional everyday life. We do not think in terms of folders but we think in terms of people. This is where Chilibase® comes into play - and helps our customers save time, money and last but not least a lot of nerves.“, Martin Welker, CEO of Axonic, explains.

The design of Chilibase® fully adapts to Outlook® 2003/ 2007. When installing Chilibase®, all Outlook® functions are saved. The Chilibase® person panel appears within Outlook® - no switching between two different software applications or handling of complicated submenus necessary.

Chilibase® is currently available as a 30 days free trial at www.chilibase.com. After 30 days, Chilibase® can be purchased at 49 Euro.

AXONIC®

About Axonic

Axonic Informationssysteme GmbH is a privately held software vendor focusing on technology concerning information, communication and recognition. The company is located in Karlsruhe, Germany and was founded by Martin Welker in 2003. The team at Axonic has successfully been developing software in the areas of artificial intelligence and knowledge and information extraction for over five years. In this time the professionals at Axonic have acquired experience in company management, creating concepts and realizing software tasks. Since 2002 research has primarily been based on the area of "communication intelligence" and „e-mail traceability“- the analysis and presentation of communication.

Press contact:

Anita Müller-Rodic

Mobile: 0049 163 287 9 387

Email: anita.rodic@axonic.net

www.chilibase.net